

FIG. 1 is a block diagram of a system architecture for a radio station. The system includes a Radio Station (140) with a Database (DB) (144) and a Radio (142). The Radio Station is connected to the Internet (110). The Internet is connected to a Tuning Service (120), which is connected to a Dial-Up Service (160) and a Radio Appliance (150). The Tuning Service is also connected to a PC (170). The Tuning Service is connected to a group of services (180) including Internet Audio (181), Radio (182), Subscriber (183), Advertising (184), Sponsor (185), Research (186), and Song (187). The Tuning Service is also connected to an Internet Audio Service (130) and Enhanced Services (190).

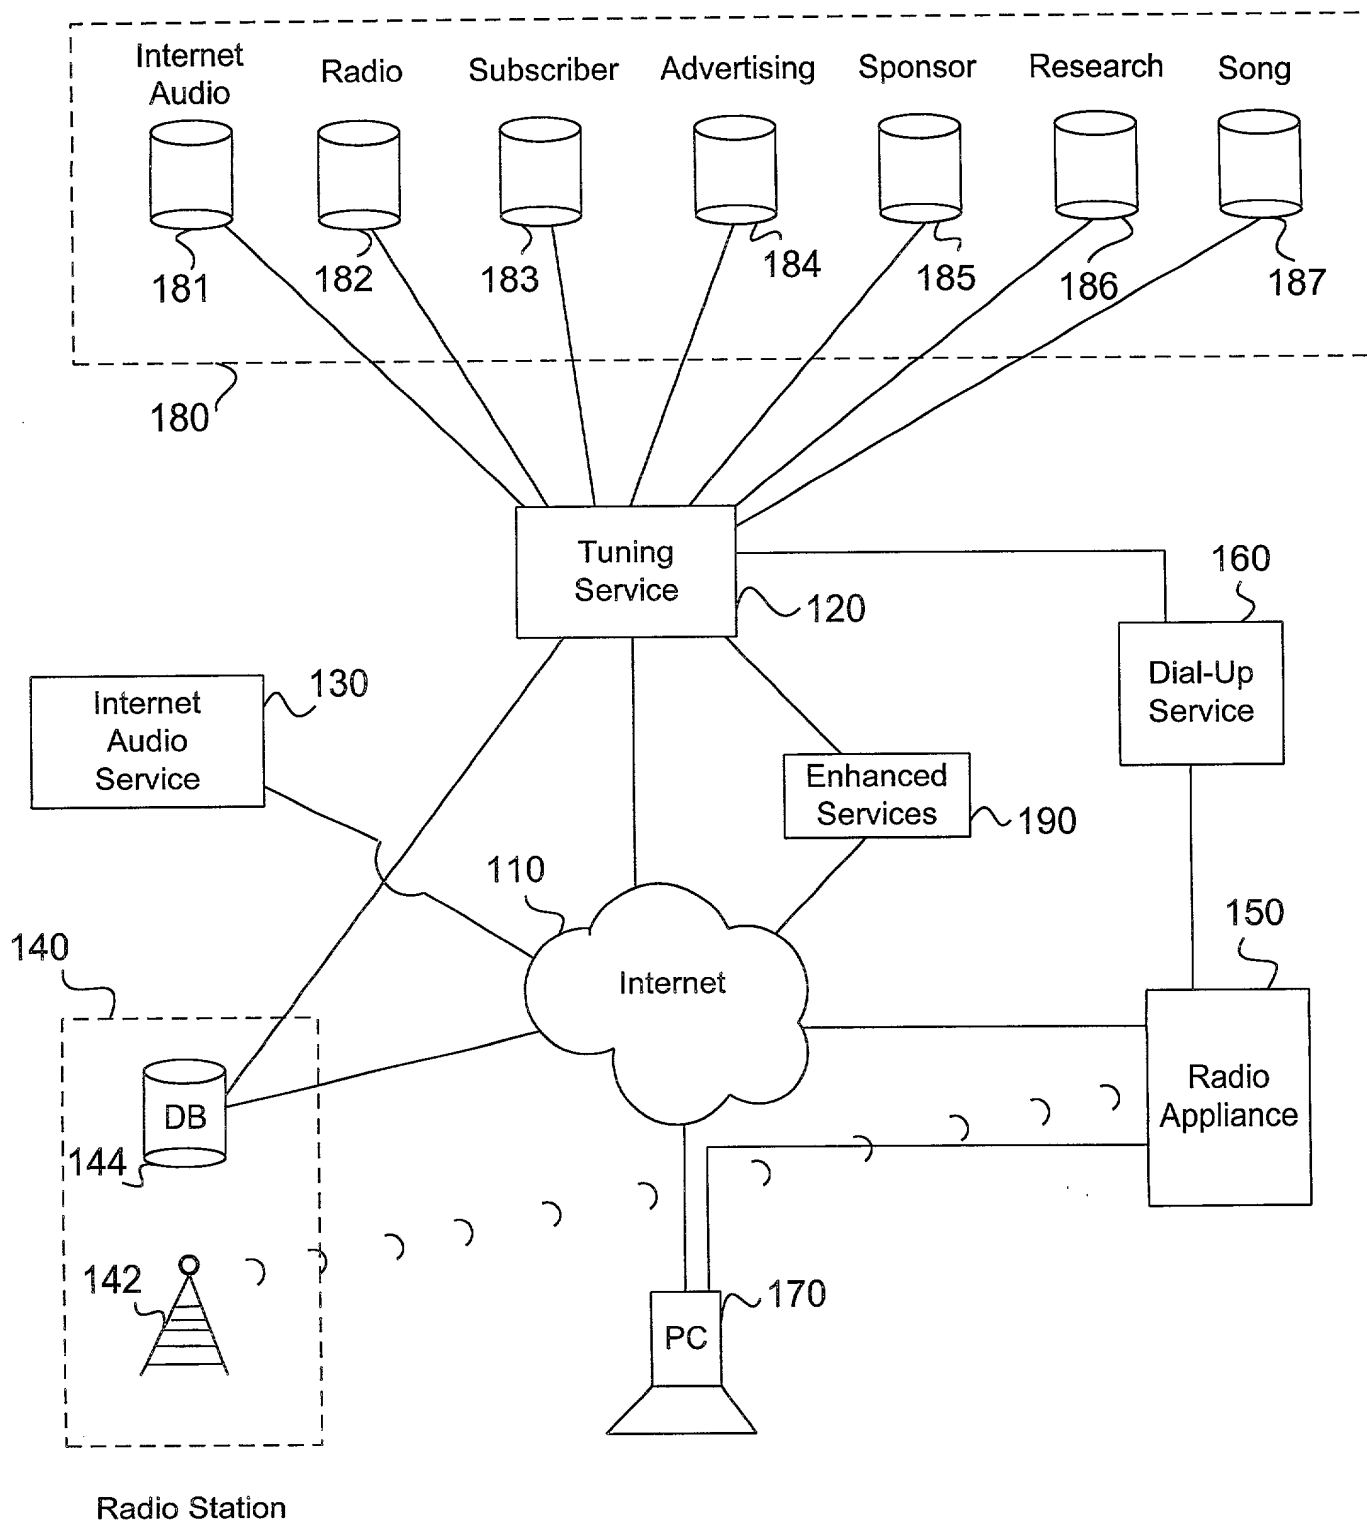

Fig. 1

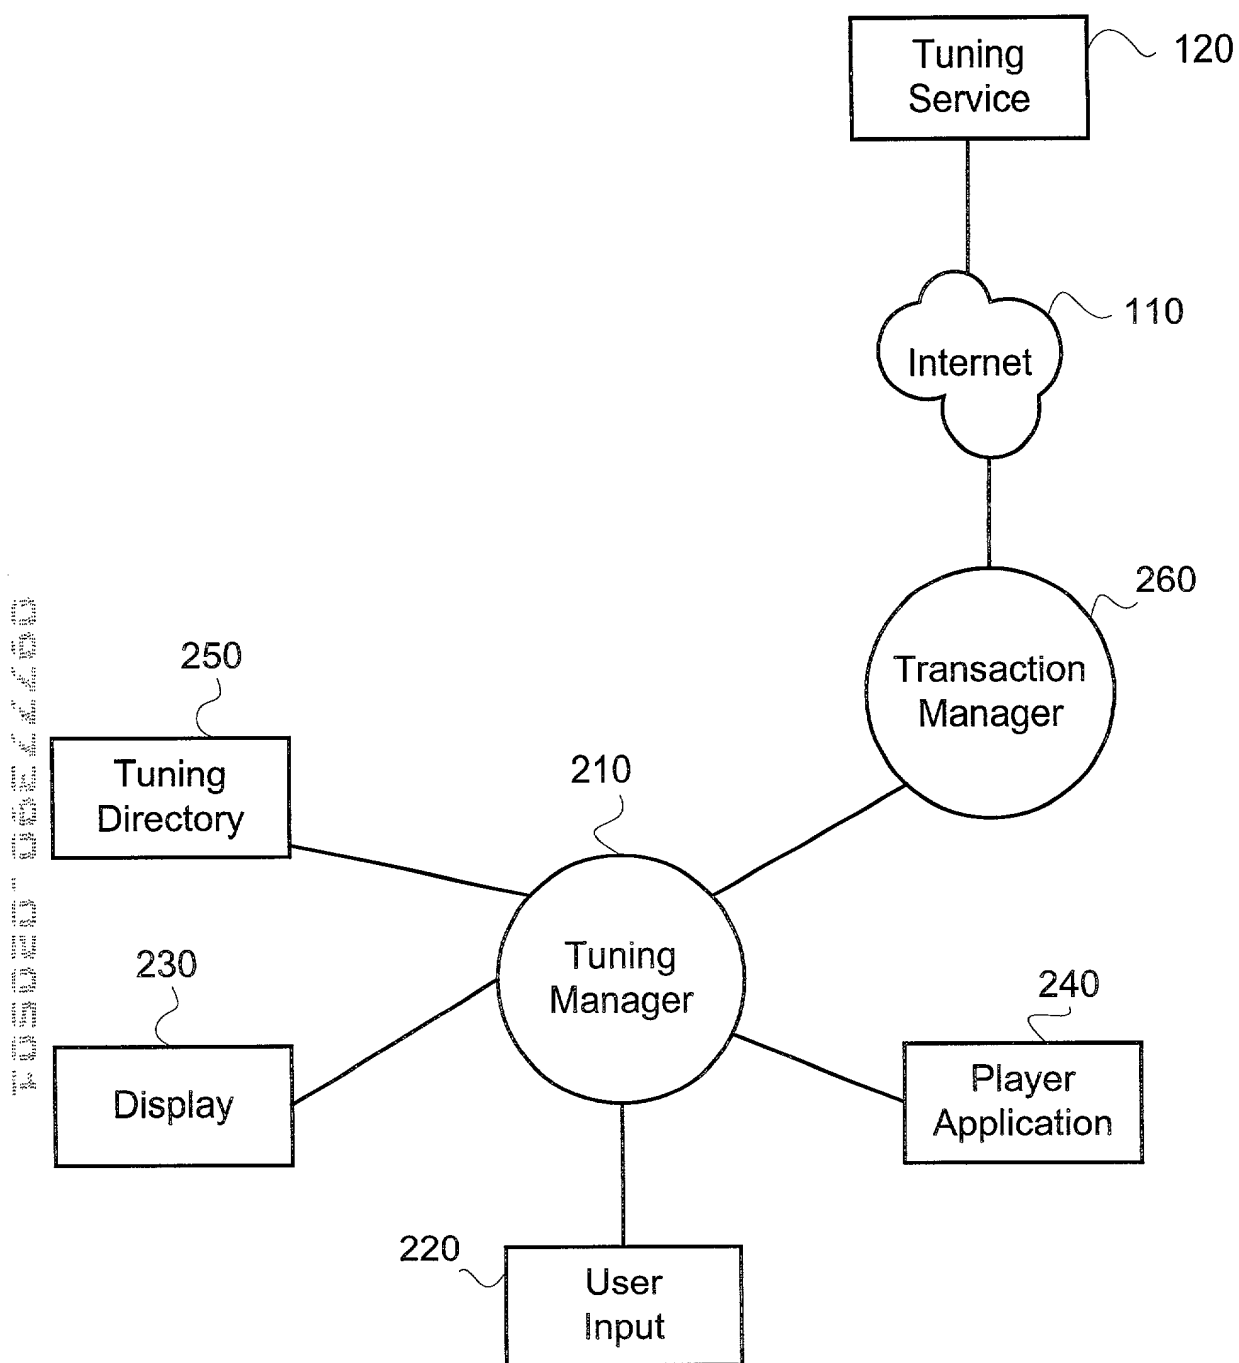

Fig. 2